

The Mountain Dragon

This dragon was last seen in 56AD. This dragon is rare as it has only been seen twice. It was discovered by Dr. Gecko in his 1 foot tall laboratory when he was looking at the view of the mountains on his balcony. Gecko took the dragon home by shrinking it down to a little version where he kept it as a pet. He named the harmful creature Reaper.

Be warned, this dragon can paralyse you by whipping you with its bumblebee black tail.

It's appearance

Despite being the size of 30 monster trucks, this dragon's black fire is harmless. This cyan winged black body is preposterously large. Its toxic breath could kill you in one blow. Additionally, its lethal talons could cut through your body like paper. However, its aqua eyes are like shining pearls in the sunlight and are not dangerous in the slightest.

It's Habitat

This dragon lives only at the mountains' peak. This is because it likes the cold air so if in sun light, it will get severely injured. Feeding only on snow, Dr Gecko had to feed it snowflakes which he made in his lab .
